

AMENDMENT 29

Guidelines for the employment policies of the Member States

SEDEC-VI/001

Point 9

Add:

BORBOLY Csaba
ÁRGYELÁN János
DRĂGHICI Emil
DUDÁS Róbert
KOVÁCS Raymund
MAGYAR Anna
MAJTHÉNYI László
MORARU Victor
NICA Alin Adrian
OPREA Emilian
RIBĂNYI József
SZABÓ Róbert
VARGA Zoltán

Draft opinion	Amendment
	draws attention to the importance of coordinating employment and education policies. Only through knowledge can the regions become more economically competitive, as a qualified labour force is the cornerstone of economic development. Vocational qualification (training, retraining and vocational education) is therefore a key area for which employment and education policies must be coordinated.

AMENDMENT 32

Guidelines for the employment policies of the Member States

SEDEC-VI/001

Point 10

Amend as follows:

BORBOLY Csaba
ÁRGYELÁN János
DRĂGHICI Emil
DUDÁS Róbert
KOVÁCS Raymund
MAGYAR Anna
MAJTHÉNYI László
MORARU Victor
NICA Alin Adrian
OPREA Emilian
RIBĂNYI József
SZABÓ Róbert
VARGA Zoltán

Draft opinion	Amendment
emphasises that the issue of skills is particularly relevant to young people, who still suffer from a	emphasises that the issue of skills is particularly relevant to young people, who still suffer from a

cripplingly high unemployment rate of more than 22%, and should be better prepared for the jobs of tomorrow in general, and green jobs in particular[1]; <hr/> [1] CoR Green Action Plan for SMEs and the Green Employment Initiative.	cripplingly high unemployment rate of more than 22%, and should be better prepared for the jobs of tomorrow in general, and green jobs in particular[1]. The Committee further considers that it is important to expand internship opportunities and to support job creation programmes within Erasmus+ with regard to mobility projects targeting adult education, vocational training and university education; <hr/> [1] CoR Green Action Plan for SMEs and the Green Employment Initiative.
---	--

Reason
In most cases, participation in an internship programme is a prerequisite for gaining employment in the long term, and the Erasmus+ programme provides a unique opportunity for students to gain international experience which can be a contributing factor in finding a job.