Point 2

Amend as follows:

Draft resolution	Amendment
believes that the EU's approach to migration must be sustainable in the long term and must address all aspects of migration, which include humanitarian obligations, asylum seekers, economic migrants, smuggling and human trafficking, development and stability in non-EU countries and Europe's demographic challenges. The Committee underlines that migration is an essential element of development, ideally benefitting not only the migrants themselves but also the host and home countries, because it allows for the exchange of ideas and stimulates innovation and diversity. The Committee reminds all of those holding political responsibility to be careful not to stigmatise migrants or migration ;	believes that the EU's approach to migration must be sustainable in the long term and must address all aspects of migration, which include humanitarian obligations, asylum seekers, economic migrants, smuggling and human trafficking, development and stability in non-EU countries and Europe's demographic challenges. The Committee underlines that legal immigration is an essential element of development, ideally benefitting not only the immigrants themselves but also the host and home countries, because it allows for the exchange of ideas and stimulates innovation and diversity. The Committee reminds all of those holding political responsibility to be careful not to stigmatise immigrants or immigration ;

Reason
The second sentence does not make sense if it refers to migration (migration = the mass movement of tribes or populations from one place to another, due to economic, social, political or natural factors). We must therefore refer to legal immigration as an option open to migrants.

Reason

It is important to have uniform rules on migration at EU level so as to respond more efficiently to this challenge and, at the same time, so as not to let the burden of migration fall solely on the shoulders of the Member States faced with this problem.

Draft resolution	Amendment
welcomes the budget increase for the EU's Triton and Poseidon operations and the commitment from fifteen Member States to provide additional resources, which should enable the EU to react to emergencies more effectively, and underlines the need to adapt the geographical scope of both operations to the problems at hand. The Committee highlights the need for a mechanism that will provide for a further increase in this budget, in line with the changing requirements for effective rescue operations for as long as they are needed. The Committee furthermore hopes that all Member States will commit to allocating additional resources when necessary. It also emphasises that funds and resources should be released as swiftly as possible without being delayed by unnecessary bureaucratic procedures;	welcomes the budget increase for the EU's Triton and Poseidon operations and the commitment from fifteen Member States to provide additional resources, which should enable the EU to react to emergencies more effectively, and underlines the need to adapt the geographical scope of both operations to the problems at hand.
